In 1998, after my first seven months in this large amazing church, I reported: "increasingly I am trying to have only one priority: love—love for God, for His people, and for the lost." I still want this triad of love to be my priority, as it also should be the highest priority of this or any church. Nevertheless, if it has been our priority, as I believe it has, it is fair to ask whether we have any results to show for it. As Winston Churchill once said, "However beautiful the strategy, you should occasionally look at the results." Of course, when it comes to an inner quality like love, any true measure of its attainment will have to await God's final judgment. This report, however, and the accompanying reports highlight ways we have sought, with God's help, to foster an increase in love and at least some of the encouraging results.

MORE LOVE FOR GOD

The Bible insists, "We love because He first loved us" (1 John 4:19). The starting point for any effort to foster greater love for God is necessarily a growing appreciation of His immeasurably great love for us. Although each of us gets a fresh chance "morning by morning" to discover new mercies of God, it is especially through our times of corporate worship that we deepen our understanding and awareness of God's love and, consequently, are inspired to much greater love for Him and for others. This is why we shape our services so that they will point us more to God than to ourselves or to anything else.

For example, most of our sermons—no matter who is preaching—are designed to relate whatever issue may be the immediate topic to its answer in God's love for us. Our supreme need is to know God better and to love Him more as the One who created the universe, died for us, and fills us with His Spirit to enable us to love others with His love. If this is the chief priority for every sermon, the preacher himself is compelled to be an example of it as he preaches with a burning love for God in his own heart and in constant dependence on the Holy Spirit.

The greatest fear of preachers is that someday we might find ourselves in the pulpit sharing some thrilling life-changing truth from God's Word, but doing so in a rote manner, merely relying on our natural abilities or on a well-crafted manuscript. The great, 18th century evangelist, George Whitefield, was once asked to explain the spiritual emptiness he found when he came to Boston. He wrote, "I am persuaded [that] the generality of preachers talk of an unknown and unfelt Christ. The reason why congregations have been so dead is because they had dead men preaching to them." How can we avoid this lethal problem?

Recently, I caught one of my fellow ministers in his office just fifteen minutes before the service, when he was scheduled to preach. He was listening to Gospel music, and he explained that he always listens to Gospel music right before he preaches. Another minister goes into the sanctuary before anyone else and prays in each section of the pews for those who will soon be sitting there. Still another minister prays and studies long hours for the contents of a sermon, but then deliberately underprepares how he will deliver it. This way, he never goes into the pulpit feeling too comfortable. Instead, he desperately seeks the Spirit's help, praying that God will give him the words to say at that moment, just as Jesus promised (Mark 13:11). The evidence whether God does so is not eloquence, but whether lives are changed and hearts set on fire.

MORE LOVE FOR EACH OTHER

Jesus said, "By this all men will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another" (John 13:35). Of course, we cannot love each other, if we do not know each other or spend any time together. This realization explains why twenty years ago we instituted a practice of offering light refreshments once a month after the morning service, and more often a light supper after our evening service. That modest beginning has grown to our current practice of homemade refreshments nearly every Sunday morning, thanks to a rotation of more than 100 dedicated cooks, bakers, servers, and those willing to clean up. We now also enjoy all-church brunches and frequent meals after our 4:00 service.
NEARLY EVERYTHING THAT THE CHURCH DOES, WHETHER WORSHIP, THE STUDY OF GOD’S WORD, FELLOWSHIP, THE ENJOYMENT OF GOD’S GOOD CREATION, AND SO ON, CAN AND WILL BE DONE BETTER IN ETERNITY. DESPITE THIS, THE LORD HAS LEFT HIS CHURCH IN THE WORLD BECAUSE THERE IS ONE THING THAT CAN ONLY BE DONE IN THIS LIFE: SHARING THE LIFE-CHANGING GOSPEL OF JESUS CHRIST WITH THOSE WHO DO NOT YET KNOW HIM.

A concern for genuine friendship also explains why we have invested so much energy in building and strengthening our 75 or so small groups. According to our last survey, more than 50% of those who attend Park Street are involved in a small group. Anecdotal evidence confirms not only the positive impact of these groups on the faith and biblical understanding of those who participate, but also how many significant friendships have developed in these.

A priority on loving each other also explains how much of our leadership functions. We are a congregational church, which means that the final authority for all that happens rests with the members of the church, which means that the final authority for all that happens rests with one pastor or lay leader, nor with a small handful of pastors or lay leaders. Instead, it rests with the members of the church, especially when expressed at an Annual Meeting or a special meeting of the congregation. From there, leadership authority is mediated for most practical purposes through the elected representatives of the congregation, namely the Elders, and also through other committees that are appointed or approved by the Elders. Of course, the priority on love mandates that each committee be conducted in prayerful dependence on God and its meetings (the way each member is genuinely valued, etc.) and its decisions characterized by love.

Recently, we have been asked to pray regularly for every aspect of the work of the Senior Minister Search Committee. This good example has convicted me of my own failure to pray and to urge the many leaders in our church. Encourage them in their work and assure them of your prayers.

We are a congregational church in every sense! We thank you and praise God for your love, whether you are serving on a committee, or serving guests at our Coffee Hour, or whether you are among the 110 volunteers who rotate as ushers and greeters, or the 100 who care for the babies and toddlers in each of our three services, or whether you are serving in some other ministry. Your gifts are needed and prized, and your ministry of love toward others truly matters to our Savior! As Jesus said, “I tell you the truth, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers of mine, you did for me.” (Matthew 25:40).

MORE LOVE FOR THE LOST

It has been said that a church is the only fellowship in the world that exists for the sake of non-members. Nearly everything that the church does, whether worship, the study of God’s word, fellowship, the enjoyment of God’s good creation, and more, can and will be done better in eternity. Despite this, the Lord has left His church in the world because there is one thing that can only be done in this life: sharing the life-changing gospel of Jesus Christ with those who do not yet know Him. This explains our sacrificial support and involvement in world missions (about 40% of our total budget), our ministry to internationals, our outreach to the homeless, and especially our longstanding concern for the quarter million students in Greater Boston, most of whom have never heard a compelling presentation of the Gospel. Many in this church, my wife and I included, have a love debt to Park Street Church because when we were students, here is where we first heard the Gospel in a way that made sense and answered our questions, and here is where we first saw the faith being lived out by those who were much older, yet clearly loved us. Here too is where we caught our own vision for bringing the Gospel into the workplace and to the ends of the earth. Here, in other words, is where we first witnessed that triad of love in practice.

Please pray that the Lord will guide and bless the Elders, Ministers, and other committees in the months ahead in all that they do. Pray also that, as the Lord wills, they would discern and take whatever steps might be needed to attract and enable many more of the current generation of students to have the same experience of God’s love at this awesome church as did earlier generations.

Your brother in Christ,

Gordon P. Hugenberger, PhD
Senior Minister
For me part of this process of looking back and giving thanks was captured by the Annual Board Meeting of the National Association of Evangelicals. The association represents more than 45,000 local churches from nearly 40 different denominations and serves a constituency of millions. As a part of the Board, I had the privilege of hosting this past year's meeting at PSC. It was a fitting match, since our church played a vital role in the founding of the NAE with our senior minister Harold Ockenga serving as the first president in 1942. In the course of the proceedings, I was deeply touched by the number of national leaders who mentioned their gratitude for the ministry of PSC. Many had attended here as young students or professionals and spoken of the vital ways that our church had blessed them. One leading missiologist stood before our quilt in the Welcome Center (the one that visually depicts the several significant events in our church's life). As he took a picture, he expressed appreciation for the faithful work of God through our church over the years and mused over the need for robust leadership in the years to come. As I ponder the richness of our past, the challenges in our present, and the opportunities for our future, I recall the declaration of faith in that wonderful hymn Great is Thy Faithfulness:

Pardon for sin and a peace that endureth,
Thine own dear presence to cheer and to guide;
Strength for today and bright hope for tomorrow,
Blessings all mine, with ten thousand beside!

God’s passion and mission from the Old Testament produces an open-hearted, loving generosity. Here is a God who delivers us from bondage, who calls us to compassion, who takes seriously the evil in a fallen world and who blesses his people to be a blessing. So, those in the Institute entered into the season of Lent with an honest appraisal of how we spent our time, money, and imaginations.

But it wasn't simply an exercise of self-examination. It was a chance to love God and to love others. We partnered with our missionaries Andrew and Anne May of Hope Prison International to send over 100 personal letters to specific inmates in South Africa. Andrew encouraged us with the realization that “Some prisoners are so desperate for contact with the outside world that they fill out subscription cards taken from old magazines, just so they will receive a response from the publisher with a pro forma invoice – a letter. A letter is a welcome interruption from the mind-numbing routine of incarceration. It is a reminder that the world is bigger than the moldy concrete walls of your cell. It is a reminder that you are still human.” Even months later, inmates speak about the impact of the letters in giving hope and making Christ real. It was not only a reminder to the inmates, but also to us that the gospel is a message of true freedom.

What a year 2016 has been! International events to fill our newsfeeds with a constant flow of drama. An extraordinary election that produced 18 sorts of national conversations. And in our own corner of Park and Tremont, an announcement from our Senior Minister that has started our search for leadership to guide this next season of life and ministry. Whether we are graduating from college, moving for a new job, or sending our kid off the college, a period of change can be unsettling. But it is a wonderful opportunity to look back with gratitude, to remember the ways in which the Lord touched our lives with grace and mercy.

Here is a God who delivers us from bondage, who calls us to compassion, who takes seriously the evil in a fallen world and who blesses his people to be a blessing.
without distraction, I have to admit that it warms my heart when I see a precocious three-year-old girl spinning in circles while she sings a few words ahead of the rest of the choir. Even though I can’t really speak for him, I suspect if Jesus was sitting in the sanctuary, such a sight would have warmed his heart too.
There is a side of me that doesn’t like standing on an elevator with 5th graders who are travelling to the top floor and then watching one of them push every button making the elevator stop on every floor as a joke. But there is another side of me that thinks it’s a little funny too. It is always slightly inconvenient trying to walk around all the teenagers sitting on the steps in the middle of the Ockenga lobby on Sunday morning drinking hot chocolate, but I usually don’t mind too much. I am just glad they are there. I really don’t mind replacing broken hockey sticks in our gym or having to go to BJ’s to buy canister of animal crackers. I like going to BJ’s more often in the fall and spring than in the middle of the winter.
Alive in Christ is the only support group for Christians struggling with same-sex attraction in Boston. It is a great blessing to have Brenna Kate Simonds serve as our director. We recently conducted our annual evaluations for our weekly support groups, including one for family and friends of those struggling with homosexuality. Here are a couple of highlights: “I was looking for a community of people who experienced same-sex attraction and also wanted to pursue godliness … I have found that I don’t have to pursue this aspect of Christianity alone. I am encouraged, cared for, and supported in the ups and downs of my personal growth as a Christian, especially in this regard.” “Being able to share in [this] group helped me feel less … unworthy of God’s grace, and helped me recognize the redeeming qualities of my God.” - Chris Sherwood

Our photographers have been submitting, critiquing, and affirming their shots in the Creative Community P52. Themes have included “Whimsy,” “Self Portrait” “Distance” “High Contrast” and “Back to School”. We also sponsored seven art installations. Artists included Mary Kocool, Sam Thompson, Park Street Kids, Josh O’Donnell, Caroline Chadwell, Norman Crump and Steve Kohler. Another highlight was the production of three movies by Park Street Films. “Blame” was a story about dishonesty on a construction project, “Picture Perfect” was about professional jealousy in a high tech laboratory and “Who Will Go” portrayed the conflicts that can come from family and friends around a call to missions. We are currently writing a script for a film to be produced for JAARS, the transportation and IT division of Wycliffe Bible translators. - Chris Sherwood

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

We have a curious congregation. This is true of our course Christianity Explored, which provides a place for people to raise questions about faith. It is a privilege to see God working in the lives of those who are learning about who Jesus is and what he has done. One attendee remarked, “I learned a great deal about Jesus, Christianity, and God. I felt very welcomed and at home when coming to this class.”

Curiosity also appeared with those exploring the age-old issue of suffering. A team of medical professionals grappled with critical questions and key Scriptures on pain and suffering, and faithful responses to it. Other classes in the morning and evening sought to respond to ethical complexities of a variety of pressing topics in today’s society. –Walter Kim

“I LEARNED A GREAT DEAL ABOUT JESUS, CHRISTIANITY, AND GOD. I FELT VERY WELcomed AND AT HOME WHEN COMING TO THIS CLASS.”

COLLEGE

Park Street has a formal partnership with Cru for undergraduate ministry. Thanks to God’s faithfulness there are 800 students involved on 22 campuses, and last year 35 students came to Christ. On Sunday mornings at PSC, college students study ethics in a Christian Formation class. Once a month, 200 students gather in our fellowship hall for worship, fellowship, and training in how to share the gospel on campus. In addition, the partnership has spawned two vibrant international missions—one in the Middle East and the other in South Africa. In the Middle East, we introduce university students to Christ and care for Syrian refugees and asylum seekers. In the South African education program, we share the gospel and help at-risk youth (AIDS orphans) get into college. –Tammy McLeod
MEMBERSHIP

In Luke 13, Jesus declares, “People will come from east and west and north and south, and will take their places at the feast in the kingdom of God.” Park Street Church was blessed with 80 new members in 2016, coming from all over the world, including Kenya, Central African Republic, China, Korea, Taiwan, India, England, the Dominican Republic, and all over the United States. No matter our countries of origin, we are all knit together by the saving death of Jesus Christ and by the Holy Spirit, who binds us together in unity, to the glory of our God and Father. -Toni Kim

GRAD STUDENTS

God has been working in our grad students and our outreach on campuses around Boston.

God has grown our many fellowships in Boston. We have over 400 grad students involved and we have two faculty fellowships too. Our biggest groups are at Harvard, MIT and BU and we are developing work at Suffolk, Lesley, Brandeis, Babson, BC, and Northeastern.

The picture below is from Harvard Business Student fair. We thank God for being a witness on campus and helping grad students consider how to worship God in their field of work as well as on Sundays. -Tim Lear

INTERNATIONALS

The international ministry has thrived this past year with a renewed focus on discipleship, pairing more than forty individuals in Park Street International Fellowship (PSIF) since the summer to learn how to follow Christ better.

Over the summer, the international fellowship also sent a short-term missions team to visit Yukari Hata, a former PSIF member who is now an assistant minister for her father’s church in Japan, to help with local evangelism.

In addition, PSIF continues to partner with our ESL program, which served 295 students from over 18 nations this past year, and through which some have come to faith. The international ministry has also engaged in efforts to aid refugees in our city, sponsoring trainings and helping develop relationships with refugee families in greater Boston. -Raymond Kam

COUNSELING & CARE GROUPS

Over this past year, those in need of extra care were served through one on one counseling, through care groups aimed at supporting those navigating specific life crises, and through the caring fellowship of the often marginalized individuals with emotional or mental disabilities. God has been faithful in raising up gifted volunteers to care for our members and regular attendees as leaders of the various care groups. The Counseling and Care Groups ministry often serve as “entrance points” to Park Street Church. Through them, some were drawn into the fellowship of our church for the first time while others found their faith again. God has been faithful in raising up individuals who have given loving intentional care out of the care they themselves have received from our Lord. -Dan Verrengia

GOD HAS BEEN FAITHFUL IN RAISING UP INDIVIDUALS WHO HAVE GIVEN LOVING INTENTIONAL CARE OUT OF THE CARE THEY THEMSELVES HAVE RECEIVED FROM OUR LORD.

COUNSELING & CARE GROUPS

We continue to consider it a privilege to welcome individuals and families affected by disability into our congregation. Over this last year, several new families who have children with disabilities have joined us for Christian Education and children’s church, knowing that their children are welcome here, and can receive individual attention and support from our volunteers. Our Friendship Bible Study for adults with disabilities continues to thrive and learn together on a weekly basis. We recently co-sponsored an event with Grace Chapel, welcoming an author who had written a book based on her experience with her son’s gifts and disabilities, and hope to do similar projects in the future. -Leslie Bodkin

In 2016, women’s ministry experienced God’s faithfulness as a season of harvest. Many ideas, sown in years past, are bearing fruit. We have received positive feedback on the Woman to Woman enewsletter begun last year. Three new initiatives have been launched. You tell us you are discovering contemplation and community at our Meet Me at the Museum gatherings. Creating Space is providing “spaces” for making and deepening friendships. Quiet mornings are giving space to deepening our friendship with God.

None of this would be possible without the innovative, cheerful teamwork of faithful volunteers. I am grateful for each volunteer, and for each PSC woman who is experiencing God’s faithfulness here.

-Chris May

God has sworn with an oath to be with those who trust him. That promise to us is just as certain as his promises to Noah, Abraham and Moses and has been sealed by the blood of Christ. Every year we see that oath in action in the lives of those who endure suffering with patience, who recover and praise God, and those who have found peace in the sorrow of loss. Thanks to the generosity of the Bob Morrison bequest, Stuart Delorme has come on board to help with the Visitation Ministry. His special focus is on people who are not able to attend services. He brings his own special charisma into nursing homes and assisted living communities.

-Chris Sherwood

The Wings team is entering its 12th year of service with many of the same faithful members: Meredith Johnson, Anne Chen, Heather Lewis, and Phil Schoenheiter have been masterfully organizing, cooking and delivering our Wings meals. We are also very grateful for our 25 cooks who are always ready to prepare delicious meals for those who are dealing with illness or loss. Ron Barndt hosts our semi-monthly confidential congregational prayer meeting. Sheryl Cunningham, Linda Herman, Doris Pratt, Lia Rix, Phil Schoenheiter and Herman and Ruth Smith pray consistently for PSCers who are in distress. We have prayed for everything from annoying roommates, murder trials, childhood cancer and same sex attraction. It is truly a blessing and privilege to stand in the gap for those who love God.

-Chris Sherwood

By the grace of God, PSC is presently the spiritual home to 75 small groups that meet within the church building or in residences throughout greater Boston. These include groups for families, couples, young adults, men, and women. This fall, small groups had the opportunity to read and discuss the locally prepared guide to the book of Jonah in the weeks leading up to our Missions Emphasis Week. We have seen expansion among Work/Life groups dedicated to helping Christians be witnesses in their workplaces, as well as continued activity from small groups with specific ministry passions, such as reaching out to the homeless, providing a place for young couples to share life together, and connecting with adults who have cognitive disabilities. We’re excited about how the Lord will use this ministry in the coming year.

-Jeff Schuliger

The music ministry participated in 169 worship services in 2016. Our three children’s choirs continue to derive blessing from their admirable volunteer directors: Lori Chang, Christine Vohe, and Shannon Jacobs. Dan Schmunk and Damon Addleman continue to serve with their customary excellence and skill.

Our pipe organ continues to decay at an alarming rate; portions of the organ that were functional 4 years ago are barely useable. Any organ recital would be virtually impossible, choral accompaniment is an exercise in sleight-of-hand and masking over problems, rather than of making beautiful music.

Some work has already been done; the remaining rebuilding/restoration work is divided into four stages, one for each physical location of the organ throughout the sanctuary. The first of these four phases has been scheduled to be completed this summer, financed in large part by our Organ Fund. After that, about $800,000 of work remains on the instrument in order to get it into good, reliable playing condition.

-Nathan Skinner
YOUTH

“Great is thy Faithfulness” is a fitting theme for our youth ministry this year. We have seen growth in many different areas. The most notable include our youth leadership, faith, and attendance. The youth have been leading the congregation in worship including the youth band leading on a Sunday evening, reading scripture in services, and serving across many different ministries. A few of our youth spent their summer to go deeper in their faith through attending a youth led social justice conference and serving refugees in Maine. Our Friday night attendance has more than doubled in the last few years. Our youth volunteers are all very proud of our youth and are grateful to the Lord for the work He’s doing in our youth ministry.

-Adam Herndon

WORKLIFE

What does it look like to be ‘on mission’ for Jesus in a world that’s increasingly skeptical of our faith? We were privileged to explore this question with Park Streeters serving Christ in a variety of everyday places—in schools, in workplaces, in communities. One of these individuals was Hillary Topazian, who is focused on epidemiology and global health. Like many of us, there are few Christians in her field. Despite this, she sees every day as an opportunity to live out her calling, knowing God placed her there for a reason. Her approach? Humbly do good work, display a joyful attitude, and expect God to work in and through her as she trusts in Him. May we all follow her example in 2017 and beyond.

-Chris Lake

WOMAN’S BENEVOLENT SOCIETY

Our Wednesday morning meetings are entering into their 209th year. 2016 was a year of expansion. We added several new members to our cadre of quilters, the New York City children’s ministry, our philatelic group and our prayer team. We are grateful for those who have faithfully sent us cards, stamps, and material for our projects. Our highlight every year is our mission’s luncheon. This year we hosted 40 guests and were excited to hear from every missionary who was stateside during the conference. It is very inspiring to hear their updates. It was also a blessing to know that we are considered members of our missionaries’ families as we prayed for some of their personal disappointments and frustrations.

-Chris Sherwood

YOUNG ADULTS

The young adult ministry at PSC continues to thrive, with Café 20s and 30s meeting on Tuesday evenings and Café Early 20s gathering on Wednesday evenings for worship, Bible study, prayer, and fellowship. New small groups have formed on both nights, with energetic leaders dedicated to coming alongside their peers as an encouragement in the pursuit of godliness. Our annual summer retreat to Lake Winnipesaukee in NH was a big highlight, drawing nearly 150 young adults for worship, fellowship and discussions about incorporating a Sabbath-rest into our busy and overbooked lives. Another highlight was that the community hosted Michael Gerson and Stephanie Summers for a well-attended political panel during this charged political season.

-Jeff Schuliger

It was presented to Park Street Church in November.

At the global level, we recognized that the current refugee crisis in the Middle East is high on God’s list of concerns. In October, we welcomed Pastor Fady Al-Hagal, a Syrian American with World Relief. He encouraged us at Park Street to minister to refugees in word and deed, rescuing and rebuilding their lives.

We were privileged this year to commission Carol S. to South Asia and to send 56 participants on short-term teams to Haiti, Japan, South Africa, Maine and Revere Beach. We had visits from Adrian and Becca T. who were sent out as staff missionaries. Also, we enjoyed seeing Caroline C., Stuart and Sindia Foster, Alvaro and Adriana Henzler, Tom and Michelle Bartkoske and Meesook and Woojin Lee, Bill and Paula Hanna, Anne and Bill O’Donnell, Andrew and Anne May. In addition, we welcomed back the Martinez family and Megan Kibbey from their overseas service.

In the Fall we welcomed our urban ministry partners from Boston Center for Pregnancy Choices, Alive in Christ, Massachusetts Family Institute, Boston Trinity Academy, Park Street School, and Park Street Kids. We encouraged members of Park Street to gain a deeper grasp of ways to serve our city.

For all this, we thank God for His faithfulness to Park Street missions. We ask his help that we may be faithful to proclaim His salvation through Jesus Christ in 2017.

When God asked Jonah “Should I not be concerned about that great city?” (Jonah 4:11) he revealed his great faithfulness to creation. God’s concern for the Ninevites’ salvation contrasted starkly with his prophet’s concern for their judgment. His compassionate concern teaches us that if we get on board with God’s mission priorities, then God himself is not going to let us down.

Michael Oh, Executive Director of the Lausanne Movement, challenged us during Missions Emphasis Week to share God’s heart for people like the Ninevites. He spoke movingly of his own experience as a Korean American missionary to Japan. Michael inspired us to take the next step in 2017 to pray, to go, to learn, to give or to serve. Many did: 108 pledged to learn, 201 to pray, 75 to serve, 32 to go, and 242 to give $843,035. Also, unexpectedly, we received $50,000 from an anonymous donor for missions in East Asia Fund.

God’s faithfulness was also evident this year as we marked three milestones in Bible translation. Bill and Paula Hanna have served the people of Thailand since 1981. Four years ago, Paula joined the translation project for the Northern Thai language. Of the 6 million people in this people group, about 100,000 are believers. We praise God that now the text of the Northern Thai New Testament has been completed.

Stuart and Sindia Foster started translating the Bible into the Lomwe (LOM-way) language in 1993 with a team of Mozambicans. Lomwe is one of the largest language groups in Mozambique with about 1.6 million speakers. Recently the team has completed the translation of the text of the whole Bible.

Jim and Andrea Z. joined the Central Asian Bible translation project in 1996. Jim worked with a team of national translators, foreign exegetical editors and consultants with the goal of giving this Central Asian people group of about 27 million, the Bible in their own language. After more than 20 years of work, the Bible has now been printed.

God’s concern for the Ninevites’ salvation contrasted starkly with his prophet’s concern for their judgment. His compassionate concern teaches us that if we get on board with God’s mission priorities, then God himself is not going to let us down.

Michael Oh, Executive Director of the Lausanne Movement, challenged us during Missions Emphasis Week to share God’s heart for people like the Ninevites. He spoke movingly of his own experience as a Korean American missionary to Japan. Michael inspired us to take the next step in 2017 to pray, to go, to learn, to give or to serve. Many did: 108 pledged to learn, 201 to pray, 75 to serve, 32 to go, and 242 to give $843,035. Also, unexpectedly, we received $50,000 from an anonymous donor for missions in East Asia Fund.

God’s faithfulness was also evident this year as we marked three milestones in Bible translation. Bill and Paula Hanna have served the people of Thailand since 1981. Four years ago, Paula joined the translation project for the Northern Thai language. Of the 6 million people in this people group, about 100,000 are believers. We praise God that now the text of the Northern Thai New Testament has been completed.

Stuart and Sindia Foster started translating the Bible into the Lomwe (LOM-way) language in 1993 with a team of Mozambicans. Lomwe is one of the largest language groups in Mozambique with about 1.6 million speakers. Recently the team has completed the translation of the text of the whole Bible.

Jim and Andrea Z. joined the Central Asian Bible translation project in 1996. Jim worked with a team of national translators, foreign exegetical editors and consultants with the goal of giving this Central Asian people group of about 27 million, the Bible in their own language. After more than 20 years of work, the Bible has now been printed.

Boston Trinity Academy comprises of students from every race and socioeconomic background would be impossible. Happily, all things are possible with God, and we have been delighted to be a part of an institution that consistently exhibits academic excellence, purposeful faith, and authentic community.

We demonstrate our academic excellence by offering 12 Advanced Placement (AP) courses, and by requiring every student to successfully complete three AP courses. In last year’s Calculus AP class (the equivalent of a 1st semester college course), 14 of 14 students received the highest possible score of 5 on the AP Exam, and in BC Calculus (second semester college), eight of ten students garnered a 5 on the Exam, one student earned a 4, and the final student received a 3 (all honors grades and worthy of college credit). We demonstrate our purposeful faith by learning to serve one another and to serve our neighbors through the Trinity Institute for Leadership and Social Justice in programs such as our mission trips to Nepal, the Micah Conference, Boston Day, and more. Finally, we are an authentic community where every student is known and loved so that they will take what they have learned and do something extraordinary with their lives by knowing and loving God and their neighbors. - Frank Guerra, Headmaster.

Each morning at Park Street School, two students run downstairs from their classroom to recite “The Pledge of Allegiance” and to pray for our day over the school loudspeaker. Parents linger in the lobby and wait for it. They record it on their iPhones. Administrators come out of their offices and place their hands over their hearts. Upstairs, students stand to face the American flag in the corners of the classrooms.

For just a couple of minutes, everything stops, and we bow our heads to pray.

It’s a brief moment in our day, but so rich. It’s an opportunity to build community. It’s an opportunity to build confidence in the students. It’s an opportunity to express faith. And it’s an opportunity to convey the character that is being built in us, “that emerges from the source of righteousness, justice, and unselfish love, God Himself, that is refined through a relationship in which God’s character activates these values in us, empowering us to live them out” (“Character Defined,” Schoolroom Notes, Fall 2009, Issue 13).

There has been a lot of talk this year around the topic of character. If you walk along Brimmer Street, the words “Character, Truth and Excellence” engraved onto our school sign might capture your attention. That motto serves as a daily reminder to us of the qualities Park Street School and Park Street Kids’ founders hoped would be nurtured in our students, and would continue to grow in our faculty and staff. We remain dependent upon our source of character – God Himself - as Mrs. Gillespie, the Principal of Park Street School eloquently reminded us above. As she also wrote, “We are aware as well that our authenticity as role models is paramount in the development of our students’ moral character. We have the privilege and the responsibility to model not only by our words, but by our actions, the virtues that God is creating in us. This process engages us in a lifestyle of honesty, forgiveness, integrity, and moral authority from which we hope to influence for eternity the lives of our students.”

We know we cannot do this alone. We remain dependent on God and His work in us. And we remain dependent on the prayers and intentional community of believers and churches around us. We are so grateful for our partnership with Park Street Church … and we covet your prayers as we move further toward our privilege and responsibility to point our students toward lives of good character, but ultimately to the One who is our source. - Kim Titchell, Director of Communications.
FINANCE AND ADMINISTRATION

Bob Andersen
CHURCH ADMINISTRATOR

The last week of December was once again a “thanksgiving” week for those of us who are privileged to serve on the church staff. The final offering of the year was collected on Christmas Day, leaving us with a combined shortfall in Offerings and Collections of $584,000. Over the remaining days of the year, the church received Christmas envelopes, on-line transfers and stock gifts amounting to $486,000, which brought total giving for the month of December close to $1 million. On behalf of the church staff, thank you for your prayers and for responding to Park Street’s financial needs with this generous outpouring of gifts.

Income to Ministry and Operations (M&O) for 2016 was $3.09 million, below budget by 1.5%, but ahead of expenses by $46,650. Income to Ministries was $2.03 million, below budget by 2.2%, but ahead of expenses by $135,618. The combined income of $5.12 million represents 98.2% of the budget goal for 2016, and allows us to move ahead with a full program for next year.

Our remarkable result from the past five years is our combined M&O and Ministries income has continued to increase each year at a compound annual rate of 2.6% while the number of giving units (regular giving accounts) has decreased each year as overall attendance (regular giving accounts) has decreased, and consequently we’ve been careful to keep the budgets essentially flat, with only slight increases (0.6% overall) included to address the rising cost of healthcare and the minimum wage.

With budgets being flat, we are most fortunate to have other sources of funds available to us as we stretch our resources into another year. Grants from outside sources provide supplemental funding for our Enable Boston Ministry (Sacco Foundation), Women’s Ministry (Imayo Dei Fund) and our audio/video/broadcast ministry (Kendrick Foundation). A fund established in 2016 through an anonymous donation is providing $50,000 for new missionary projects overseas (East Asia Fund).

Bequests from past members helped to establish our Campus Ministry Center near Harvard Square (Perin and Hilda Wilson, Henry van Baay). Bequests also provide perpetual funding for retired missionaries (Janet Elliott Fund) and upkeep of the sanctuary (Edith Corey Fund). A bequest in 2014 from the estate of Robert Morrison is providing funding for international students, Staff Missionary projects, missions partnerships and a visitation ministry for shut-ins.

Bob Rumsley
CLERK

As of December 31, 2016, the Park Street Church database showed an active membership of 1,473, an increase of 14 from the previous year. Our congregation was blessed with the addition of 80 new members, 61 by confession of faith and 19 by reaffirmation/letter of transfer. Two former members returned and were reinstated as active. The membership status of one member was found to have been incorrectly stated, the member’s status was corrected from non-member to active. 859 members are listed as inactive.

The ministerial staff conducted six confession of faith baptisms, 17 infant/child baptisms and two infant dedications.

During the year, eight members went to be with the Lord: Lois C. Barros, Edwin A. Erickson, Rose B. Parker, Thomas Greendus, Rena M. Johnson, Ralph McPhee, Dorothy V. Meyer and Karen B. Piper. Throughout the year, 53 members transferred their membership to a different church, four members withdrew their membership and four members had their membership status revised from active to inactive.

We are grateful for the continued commitment of God’s people to the local and global work of Park Street Church and look forward to another fruitful year ahead.
Just as Facilities Management extends beyond the physical boundaries of the facilities, it also involves much more than management. Our staff assists in the direction of weddings, memorial services, concerts, the Freedom Trail, Park Street Kids, board meetings, conferences, trainings, recovery groups, tours, and more. This year, in addition to our normal programming, we have hosted a group of Christian writers from over a dozen campuses and universities, held a Streams Of Praise concert for a packed out worship service in Mandarin and in English, hosted the National Association of Evangelicals board meeting, and even transformed ourselves into the city of Bethlehem! Strategically, we look to the past to see what did (or did not) work well, work on the present, and are engaged in envisioning and charting a road map for a viable, dynamic future. This has included a much needed renovation of the Wilson and Van Baay House kitchens, finishing with a state of the art heating/cooling system for 2 Park Street, and creating a 5th Floor administrative ministry suite. We collaborate with ministries to help ministry succeed and thrive. This year, along with consultants, the Security Committee, and the leadership of Lyford Beverage, we have worked at developing security policies and procedures with a goal of bringing safety training to Park Street Church ushers, greeters, leaders, and lay leaders. Through the Boston Police Department’s community meetings (Want to attend one? Just ask me!), we have established many connections with the police and with community partners. Facilities staff are the first to arrive each morning, and the last to leave each night—if this list seems daunting, it is. We appreciate and need your prayers and support, and are grateful to be a blessing to Park Street Church.

Dear Church Family:

In a letter sent from jail, Apostle Paul encourages the Philippians: Rejoice in the Lord always; again I will say, rejoice. Let your reasonableness be known to everyone. The Lord is at hand; do not be anxious about anything, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God. And the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus. Phil 4:4–7 Yes, we are living in a time of great transition in our church, culture, government. While the future is uncertain, our Lord not only reigns but soon will return in glory to make all things right. So we can rejoice in the goodness of the Lord at all times—even or perhaps especially—in challenging times as these. In trusting and thanking the Lord, He gives us His peace and protection. Trusting in God’s promises, especially with respect to prayer and supplication, your Board of Elders presses on. One of the first things we did after Gordon announced his plan to retire in June 2017, was to establish a prayer team to lead the congregation in concerted prayer during this pastoral transition. Elder Jim Feenstra and his team have been doing an excellent job in leading all of us to pray for Gordon, the ministry/staff team, the PSC congregation, and the work of the Senior Minister Search Committee. The Board of Elders is grateful for all the work the ministers and staff have been doing to continue to lead and guide PSC in the midst of this transition.

We live in exciting times but the Lord is with us. He is the head of the Church and will lead us through this transition. Please continue to remember all of us in your prayers.
